

WAYS IN WHICH THE LIBRARY IS CONSIDERING INDIGENOUS THOUGHT IN FACILITATING LEARNING

Manisha Khetarpal

Maskwacis Cultural College

Abstract

Hear from librarians who work at tribal colleges about our experiences providing programs, services and information, literacy instruction for Indigenous learners using their own systems and knowledge. We will share open educational resources, personal stories and offer best practices for supporting and teaching Indigenous learners by discussing indigenous thought and pedagogical practices which are successful across many disciplines . These ideas and indigenous ways can be applied to all sorts of literacy organizations, libraries and organizations who serve indigenous communities.

Biography

Not yet available!