Roxane Blood is a member of the Blackfoot Confederacy and a citizen of the Kainai Nation. Roxanne's roots reach far into the north past the Denecho and as far south past the medicine line. She has spent the last several years reintroducing herself to the land and people and experiencing the beauty of her culture. Roxanne has touched base with the issues her people are facing and by listening to the stories and finding common ground through strengths and resiliency for moving forward. Being blessed with four beautiful daughters and loving partner they have given Roxanne courage to face her own fears that have held her grounded. By sharing the stories and listening to voices from the youth, children, and Elders, the people will come to their own place!
