

Caleb Anacker was born and raised around rural Alberta by his French-Canadian mother from Southern Ontario and his American father from Maryland USA. He and his wife now call Ashmont Alberta home, where they have lived since 2011. Caleb is a Masters of Social Work candidate at the University of Calgary and finished his program requirements in April 2019. During his studies, he completed 900 practicum hours in the Social Work Program at University nuhelot'ine thaiyots'į nistameyimâkanak Blue Quills where he focused on the role of traditional Circle Processes, Indigenous worldviews, and Indigenous parenting wisdom in Children's Services practice. Caleb has worked in Children's Services related fields since 2006.